

Plan To Lower Draft Age

Congress Will Be Asked to Let 18-Year Olds Be Included

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—The Defense Department plans to ask Congress to let it draft 18-year olds and tighten deferments and exemptions for currently draft eligible men from 19 through 25.

Felix Larkin, the Defense Department's general counsel, told reporters today of the plans. He said a manpower bill would be submitted to Congress within two weeks designed to meet additional needs for men for the armed services.

Larkin said the plan is to extend the present 21-month service period for draftees to 27 or 30 months. He added, however, that this term was not firm and might be changed before the manpower bill reaches Congress.

About 1,200,000 boys will reach 18 during the next fiscal year beginning July 1 and about 800,000 of these could be expected to meet physical requirements for military service, Larkin estimated.

Women Not Included

He said the Defense Department's manpower proposals do not envisage the drafting of any women.

Larkin said the Defense Department is working out its own proposed manpower law and that undoubtedly Selective Service and other agencies will submit their own ideas to Congress.

The Defense Department proposal, he said, would permit 17-year olds to enlist with their parents' permission; 18-year olds would be automatically eligible for the draft as soon as they had completed high school. He added that those who reached 19 and were still in high school would "probably have to be yanked out."

Larkin said 18-year-old draftees would not be sent overseas until after they had completed their full basic military training.

Jaycees in Important Meet

The Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner meeting was held Thursday evening in the Pioneer Room, with 58 members in attendance. It was one of the biggest membership attendance, and most enjoyable meeting, since the Jaycees organized in Sedalia less than a year ago.

Robert Wall, president, presided over an important business meeting. Two new committees were announced. The president appointed John Pelham chairman of the Ways and Means committee, and named Frank Evans chairman of the Jaycee Forum of the Air.

The highlight of the meeting was the showing of a color film of the Christmas parade, which was sponsored by the Jaycees in Sedalia on December 1. This film is available to schools and civic organizations for showing. Anyone interested in using this film, may do so by contacting Robert Wall.

John Carroll, who did such a good job as chairman on handling the Christmas parade, was unanimously elected as the new board member to replace that office held by Robert Younger, who is working in Marshall, Mo.

The other board members gave brief talks. Scott Webber was introduced as a new member. Several guests from out-of-town were introduced.

The next Jaycee meeting will be held on January 18, at which time the D. S. A. award will be given to the young outstanding man of Sedalia.

Court Approval On Two More Deputies

The Pettis county court has approved the appointment of two more deputies.

Mrs. Alice Scott, reappointed by Judge A. M. Harlan of the Probate Court.

Mrs. Naomi Ruth Brown, appointed deputy recorder by Malachi O'Brien, recorder.

Kansas City Milk Prices Up a Cent

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 5—(AP)—Retail milk prices are going up another cent a quart, the third hike since September 1.

The new price will be 21 cents a quart for the standard product and 22 cents for homogenized. Retail prices were upped one cent September 1 and another cent early in October.

Loss in Butler Fire Over $75,000

BUTLER, Mo., Jan. 5—(AP)—A raging fire destroyed the two-story Jennings building and the adjoining movie theater last night and threatened two other buildings before it was controlled early today.

An unofficial estimate placed the loss at more than $75,000.

Firemen from Harrisonville and Adrian responded to a call for help in fighting the blaze which started in the Jennings building on the southwest corner of the square.

About 250 patrons in the theater escaped without injury when smoke filled the structure.

The flames threatened a one-story building occupied by an International Harvester company agency, and the two-story residence of O. C. Jennings, owner of the Jennings building.

The first floor of the big building was occupied by a dress shop and Jennings' grocery. Six apartments were on the second floor.

Dissent by Taft as to Authority

Says Truman Lacks Right to Commit Troops

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) declared in the Senate today that President Truman has no power to commit American troops to a European defense force without approval first from Congress.

Taft asserted, too, that the president "without authority x x involved us in the Korean war." In his first foreign policy speech of the 82nd Congress, Taft said he is willing to commit "some limited number of American divisions" to North Atlantic defenses. But he said the Europeans must take the lead in forming such a force.

"I do not think we should force our assistance on nations which do not wish to arm themselves," the Ohio Senator declared. "I do not think we should insist or even urge that Europeans form a great international army unless they request us to help them with that project."

"I do not think we should assume the leadership in the formation of a great international army by the appointment of an American commander-in-chief."

Plans Being Laid
President Truman has already named Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for that place and the Truman administration has laid plans to send additional American troops to Europe to serve in the combined defense force.

At a news conference only yesterday, President Truman said there was no question but that he had authority to send additional troops to Europe.

It was this authority which Taft questioned, contending it was a matter on which Congress must pass.

Taft said that before the North (Please turn to Page 4, Column 4)

Marshall Petain Is Getting 'Very Feeble'

PARIS, Jan. 5—(AP)—Marshall Henri Philippe Petain, 95, now in his fifth year of exile on the Ile d'Yeu, is in a "very feeble" condition, Maitre Jacques Isnori, who defended the Vichy chief of state at his treason trial, reported today.

"He suffers with his legs and is finding it more difficult to take his daily walk in the fortress yard," his lawyer said after spending a few days on the Atlantic island.

Mrs. Roach Tells B.P.W.C. of Tour of European Countries

In an address before the Business and Professional Women's club Thursday evening at the Bothwell hotel, Mrs. Ruth Robinson Roach, of Kansas City, gave an interesting account of her tour of the European countries last summer.

Mrs. Roach was sent as one of six delegates to the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's club in London. In her talk Mrs. Roach said that there were 2,200 women registered from four continents with Great Britain having the largest registration Canada second and the United States third.

Freeze In Prices Impends

Issue of Order Is Expected to Come Very Soon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—The government was reported today to be drafting an order that all business firms give a 30-day notice before raising prices.

This would have the effect of a one-month price "freeze" although it would not apply to all farm prices, because of certain provisions of law.

Retail food prices were shown by the Bureau of Labor Statistics today to have risen 1.2 per cent between Nov. 28 and Dec. 15—almost to the record high reached in July of 1948.

There was no immediate confirmation of the plan to issue a 30-day advance notice order. However, reports from people close to price director Michael V. DiSalle and his staff said the decision has been made to issue such an order very soon.

Stop-Gap Move

The action was described as a stop-gap measure—holding the line temporarily while the price stabilization office builds a staff to enforce a system of more specific ceiling prices, and while the wage stabilization board comes to some decision on standards for controlling wages. This board has called a labor management conference for next week to talk over problems involved in wage control.

DiSalle is known to be particularly concerned over rising food prices. The Defense Production Act of 1950 contains provisions which would prevent freezing of most farm prices. However, there are certain things that DiSalle can do about food prices, and some of them are included in the 30-day notice order now reported pending.

For example, the law permits control of the margins of wholesale and retail distributors of food, and, to a certain extent, the prices of food processors.

Today's report on gains in food prices came as farm belt congressmen protested in advance against an anticipated request from President Truman to let him put his own controls on farm prices.

Vote to Cite Tony Accardo

'Gambling Boss' Refused to Tell About Income

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—Dapper Anthony J. (Tony) Accardo, reputed Chicago underworld-gambling boss, refused today to tell Senate investigators about his income and associates. The senators voted to cite him for contempt.

Accardo slouched in the witness chair with his hands folded and declined, during a two-hour public hearing, to answer most of the questions put to him. Many of the inquiries dealt with bookie operations in Chicago and Miami.

Claiming constitutional protection, Accardo contended the answers might tend to incriminate him, or were not pertinent to the Senate crime committee's investigation of organized interstate gambling.

At one point during the futile questioning, Senator Tobey (R-NH) burst out with a demand that the interrogation be suspended and Accardo cited for contempt.

"These refusals to answer are an insult to the committee and its counsel," Tobey snapped. "This is a new low and we've had some tough ones."

Tobey said it was insulting to the committee and its counsel.

Reports Given In Meeting of City Council

Building Permits For $1,500,000 Construction

The Sedalia city council met in a recess session Thursday night at which time one annual report and several monthly reports were given by various city officials and departmental heads. These reports along with the monthly bills and reports of collections were read, approved by the council, and placed on file.

L. W. Dickman, building, electrical and gasoline inspector, presented his annual report to the council which was approved and accepted. The report covers all collection of fees for permits issued as follows:

Number of building permits issued 225; fees collected $1,216.00. Number of electrical permits issued 280; fees collected $715.30. Number of street board permits issued 770; fees collected on the above $385.00.

Total permits issued 1,275; total fees collected for year $2,316.30. Total gasoline collection for 1950 $35,091.84.

The above building permits cover a total of approximately $1,500,000 actual construction costs. This figure does not include land costs and other improvements such as building of sidewalks, driveways, sewers and landscaping.

Bills Are Approved

Among bills approved for payment were those of Lippert Bros. construction company of Oklahoma City. These bills were for work and material used in completion of sewer contracts 5, 6 and 7. These three contracts were only a few of the many in Sedalia's million dollar sewer program which is nearing completion.

Babe Born While Bullets Whiz By

WONJU, Korea, Jan. 5—(AP)—A baby was born while bullets ripped about the other day.

A patrol led by Capt. Ken Irving, 35, Auburn, N. Y., saw North Korean soldiers go into a house. The Americans opened fire, killing two Communists and capturing one.

After the shooting Irving searched the house to make sure no Reds were left. Huddled in a back room he discovered three adults, three children and a five-minute-old baby born during the shooting.

"I hope the child has a quieter life in the future than he did his first five minutes," Irving said.

Addresses the Underwriters

William F. Brown Spoke on Topic Of 'Communism'

The Sedalia Life Underwriters met today noon at the Bothwell hotel with Hugo Spahn presiding.

The guest speaker of the afternoon was William F. Brown, attorney, who spoke on "Communism in Asia." Mr. Brown was introduced by Charles G. Wilson and his talk, in part, follows:

"Much is seen in the papers about the confusion of mind of the American public over the current Korean crisis.

"This, if true, is because of the lack of American knowledge of things Oriental. We are disposed to assume that other nations and other peoples think, act and respond as we do. This obviously is fallacious and can lead to dangerous domestic and foreign complications.

Men As Expendable

"The Chinese are now using their most expendable commodity—men—in the current fighting in Korea. They do not have productive capacity to conduct an aggressive war and they have no capacity to supply an army in an aggressive war.

"The current status of U. N. forces in Korea is discouraging, but is not serious enough to justify a policy of isolationism in this country. While we are bearing the brunt of casualties and expense for the current fighting, we must not forget that of late, we have accomplished much toward that universal desire of united action toward aggression. For the first time in history, many nations, large and small, have unhesitatingly thrown their support into the pool of resources to fight unprovoked aggression.

"To voluntarily leave the Asiatic mainland, would mean that we have broken faith with our own allies and would make us the laughing stock of all Asia. This may seem a small price to the inveterate isolationist, but so-called 'face' is deeply rooted in Asiatic thought and philosophy and the Asiatics compose roughly one-half of the population of the earth. To alienate half of the globe to satisfy the whim of a loudly vocal minority would be ruinous.

"To retreat from Asia, under present circumstances, is inevitably a form of appeasement, and appeasement is an unspoken acknowledgement of weakness.

"For our own salvation, we must fight communism while we have allies wherever it rears its ugly head, at home or abroad, in Europe or Asia, with manpower and resources. To do ought else is to slowly perish."

Rent Control Is Restored

Back in Effect In Phelps County On Saturday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods announced today that federal rent control will go back into effect in Phelps County, Missouri, tomorrow. He ordered landlords to roll back their rentals to ceilings of September 23, 1949.

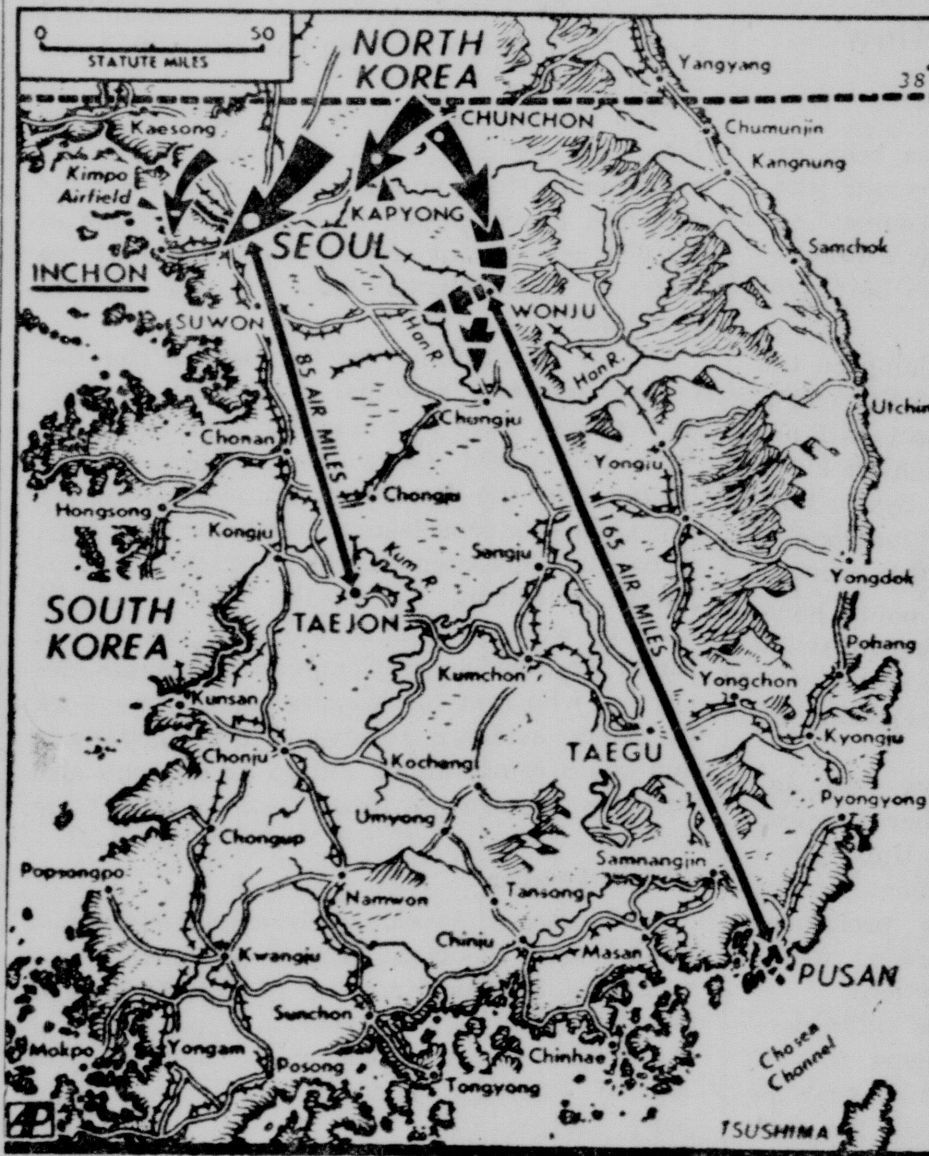

Woods said his action carried out a recommendation of the Phelps County rent advisory board which said that the opening of near-by Fort Leonard Wood "has produced many unconscionable rental increases, eviction practices, and discriminatory rental competition."

Woods order also restores eviction control, making it harder for landlords to evict tenants. Phelps County is in south-central Missouri, south of Jefferson City and southwest of St. Louis. A previous order had re-established rent control November 22 in Laclede and Pulaski counties, also in the Fort Leonard Wood area.

Today's action affects more than a dozen communities and all unincorporated places in the county. Rolla, the county seat, remained under rent control when Woods removed controls from the rest of the county September 23, 1949.

After Seoul Seizure Reds Pounding Their Way Toward Wonju

Inchon Abandoned to Avoid Trap

As Chinese Reds pushed south and west of captured Seoul in an attempt to trap Allied forces in the area, Seoul's port of Inchon (underlined) was evacuated by sea under protective naval guns. A battle raged southwest of Kapyong as another Red force pushed down the road toward Seoul in an attempt to trap U. N. forces. There was a dangerous breakthrough in central Korea, where an estimated force of 180,000 Chinese and Korean Reds moved down from Chonchon toward Wonju.

Half Million in Civil Defense To be Sought

Twice Sum The Defense Chiefs Had Recommended

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 5—(AP)—A half million dollar appropriation to run Missouri's civil defense program is the aim of House appropriations chairman Fred Ray Columbus (D.) of St. Louis.

Columbo, beginning his second term as head man of the powerful appropriations committee, said today the $500,000 figure for the two-year period beginning July 1 is twice the amount civil defense chiefs have recommended.

But the chubby little representative said he is convinced home defense is one of the most important projects facing the 1951 legislature.

He said he wants to do everything he can to make sure the state council has the money it needs to build a complete defense program for Missouri.

Robert M. Hanson, assistant to defense director Ralph Hammond, said two months ago the legislature would be asked to provide $250,000 to administer the program during the coming two years.

Also asked was a $75,000 appropriation for the six-month period between now and June 30, plus a special "drop in the bucket" emergency fund to be used for evacuation purposes in case of atomic attack.

Columbo said those figures would be in the appropriation bill.

Withdrawal of UN Forces 'Not Rout or a Dunkerque'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5—(AP)—A high Army officer asserted emphatically today that the withdrawal of United Nations forces in Korea is a well-planned and executed withdrawal and "is not any rout or a Dunkerque."

The officer, who may not be named, emphasized that point repeatedly in talking to reporters at a Pentagon briefing session.

At the same time, he presented a set of figures to show the overwhelming strength now being thrown by the Chinese and North Korean Communists against the United Nations forces. A total of 950,000 enemy troops,

Shatter Road Blocks After Being Cut Off

Four UN Divisions Escape in Four Day Battle

By Stan Swinton

WONJU, Korea, Jan. 5—(AP)—Four cut-off South Korean divisions have broken through Communist roadblocks to reach the safety of U. N. lines north of threatened Wonju.

The last weary column of half-frozen Republic of Korea (ROK) infantrymen got through Thursday, it can now be revealed. Their escape climaxed a savage four-day battle. It began when the reorganized North Korean 12th division slipped in from the north-east. The Reds straddled the two ROK supply and withdrawal routes leading south from Hongchong, approximately 22 miles north of Wonju.

With the South Koreans safely back, heavily outnumbered American, French and Dutch troops Friday pulled their lines back closer to Wonju.

The danger of encirclement by the four North Korean divisions pushing south to the east and west of this U. N. force precipitated Friday's withdrawal. Field intelligence officers said the Reds are already nearly parallel to Wonju on one flank.

General MacArthur's headquarters has said that seven Communist armies—probably about 210,000 men—are swarming south from the Chonchon area toward Wonju.

MacArthur's intelligence experts said the Red masses apparently hope to nip off and destroy U. N. forces holding Wonju. If successful, they probably then would wheel west in an effort to cut off Eighth army forces retreating south from fallen Seoul.

Eighth U. S. Army Withdraws to Southward in Move For Pusan

By the Associated Press

Chinese and Korean Communists rolled up additional men and material today for a big breakthrough in central Korea aimed at shattering United Nations forces.

Allied pilots said they saw signs of the heaviest buildup yet behind enemy lines. The Communists, having seized burning Seoul and devastated Inchon, pounded toward Wonju, 55 miles southeast of Seoul.

An estimated 200,000 Communists poured down the bleak cold mountains of the interior. They could turn left or right at Monju, with the object of cutting off parts of the allied forces.

Field intelligence officers said the Reds are already nearly parallel to Wonju on one flank.

The bulk of the U. S. Eighth army is withdrawing southward, probably toward the Pusan beach head, where they were bottled up by North Koreans last summer before MacArthur's successful fall offensive that carried his men to the borders of China, only to be driven back by Chinese Communists in overwhelming numbers.

Grim at Pentagon

AP military affairs reporter Elton C. Fay in Washington said the possibility that American forces will pull out of Korea is now moving toward a probability. He said it was significant that President Truman yesterday declined to comment on Korea and that Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall was cautious. No one at the Pentagon pulled out maps and speculated on where new holding positions might be looked for. In that supreme headquarters in the nation's capital there was a new air of grimness and the silence was ominous, Fay observed.

On the fighting front, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the U. S. Eighth army said "Everything is going fine." But he asked correspondents to warn the American people that "the issue is not Korea." He added: "The issue is whether some day the same thing goes on in America or the western world, or whether we can keep it away from our shores until international agreements have worked the problem out in more orderly fashion."

McGee Dies in Gas Chamber

Slayer Spent Last Four Years in 'Solitary' Cell

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 5—(AP)—In a final show of bravado, a convicted killer of two men flicked the dust off the execution chair with a handkerchief and then went to his death in the Missouri gas chamber early today.

He was 38-year-old Claude McGee who spent the last four years of his life in solitary confinement at the state penitentiary. "I ain't scared to die—goodbye," McGee told the guards as the gas chamber door clanged shut.

McGee was executed for killing John Manor, a fellow convict, with a claw hammer in the prison yard in 1948. Manor had been McGee's accomplice in a slaying 14 years ago.

McGee gained a reputation as a bad prisoner because of his frequent escapes.

McGee and Manor were sentenced to life imprisonment, in 1937. McGee and another prisoner escaped in 1945 and kidnapped a Jefferson City man. After being recaptured he received an additional 12-year sentence.

The Rev. Frank Chase, prison chaplain, baptized McGee late yesterday. Warden Ralph N. Eidson said much of McGee's time the last few days was spent reading the Bible.

A sister from Independence, Mo., was McGee's last visitor from the outside yesterday. Her name was withheld by prison officials.

Priest Has Bold, New Concept Of Right to Strike 'First Blow'

By Bruce Blossat

The idea of "preventive war" has been examined thoughtfully and rejected by our leaders. They have spurned it on two counts:

1. There is really no such thing as a preventive war in the sense that a war can be fought to prevent war.

2. Undertaking a war to get the jump on the enemy and prevent DEFEAT is something else. But our moral position in the world will not allow us to take this step even though we know the Soviet Union is plotting our destruction. We must, the argument goes, wait for conclusive overt action by our prospective enemy.

Most of the speculation on this point, however, has assumed that if we were to strike first, we would hit well in advance of the first enemy blow, when he was perhaps giving no sign of immediate action.

An entirely new notion has now been injected into this argument by Father Edmund Walsh, S.J., regent of Georgetown University's foreign service school. His statement carries especial weight because he is a prominent Catholic educator treating a subject on which the church has strong moral convictions.

Father Walsh believes we may be fully warranted morally in striking the enemy first if we have positive, reliable information that he is about to hit us. He illustrates with the case of Japan in 1941.

The Japanese carrier fleet left a Jap port on Nov. 26, 1941, bound for its crippling attack upon Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7. According to Father Walsh, we would have been thoroughly justified in intercepting that fleet at any point in its course—had we known beyond doubt what its goal was.

Put simply, this is the right of self-defense and self-preservation, which is sanctioned both morally and legally by our democratic system. Primitive man could not be blamed for striking first when he saw an enemy fist coming at him. As the threat moved back in space, first through use of knives and then of the spear, the bow and arrow, and finally guns of ever-lengthening ranges, the danger remained immediate and real. In other words, it was close in time, though not in space.

Today the danger is from atomic bombs which may be carried by planes based 3000 to 5000 miles away, or atomic missiles fired from battleships or submarines poised many miles off our shore. But it is as close as a barbarian's fist to his adversary's jaw.

Father Walsh reasons that Russia would not attempt an attack on us unless well armed with A-bombs, since she knows we would use such weapons against her instantly in retaliation. If she struck, she would strive for surprise, suddenness and an absolutely crippling effect right at the start—to prevent our striking back.

Knowing this, for us to await the "first blow" is thus obviously to invite ruin and national suicide. As far as effective resistance by us goes, the first blow might be the only one necessary.

Father Walsh argues that we cannot take that gamble, that we cannot allow the enemy to strike first if we wish to survive.

Were we to adopt Father Walsh's thinking as our national policy, it would impose a tremendous strain upon our civilian and military intelligence services. We would have to count upon them to tell us when—for sure—the enemy was about to strike. We could not afford to be wrong, either way.

Our national leaders may contend that the burden on intelligence would be too great, that the risk of making a mistake would be colossal.

If that should be their conviction, it would seem incumbent upon them to devise an alternative policy which would guarantee to us the right to defend and preserve our nation and our people while there is still time to save them.

What that policy should be is a matter for debate. The nation can thank Father Walsh for the fact that this vital topic has now been reopened for discussion at the most critical juncture in our national life.

Anna Rosenberg's Confirmation An Important Victory

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—In capitol cloakrooms, conservative and liberal senators alike are alarmed at the sinister forces which conspired against Anna Rosenberg, who after a venomous smear campaign has now been confirmed unanimously as assistant secretary of defense. When analyzed, these forces take on the semblance of "the great conspiracy" of Hitler's terrorist regime.

The fact that such southern Democrats as Byrd of Virginia and Russell of Georgia, plus such conservative Republicans as Cain of Washington, helped expose this conspiracy, is a wholesome sign that the U.S. Senate will not stand for religious prejudice—even when one of its own members appeared to be involved.

The story of the great conspiracy would read more like fiction if it were not officially documented.

Mrs. Rosenberg, whose annual income as labor adviser to the Rockefellers, the Macy department store and others averaged around $250,000, gave up this income for a salary of $10,000 as assistant secretary in charge of the Defense Department's labor and manpower problems.

Up for confirmation by the Senate, she was accused of being a former Communist member of the John Reed club and for days her name with its alleged Communist connection was featured in the headlines. Those who played a part in this conspiracy, directly or indirectly, were: Rabble-rouser Gerald L. K. Smith; Benjamin Freedman, an ex-Jew and would-be Catholic who has been barred from the church; Ralph De Sola, an ex-Communist; Senator McCarthy, who sent his investigator to New York to gather evidence regarding Mrs. Rosenberg; and radio commentator Fulton Lewis who also sent his legman to New York on the same errand.

Arms Peddler

Freedman, it developed, is employed by the Arab league to obtain arms for Moslem countries, and Senator Kefauver of Tennessee read two interesting cablegrams into page 157 of the Senate record. One cable, addressed to Ahmad Houssein, head of the young Egypt party, stated:

"Dearest Brother. Letter received. Attending everything requested, very busy United Nations situation. Writing fully this week. Extend eminence wishes for continued vision, courage, strength, struggle on behalf justice his people. Giving him fullest cooperation. Family send love to all."

His "eminence" was identified as the Mufti of Jerusalem, subsidized by Hitler during the war to stir up anti-Jewish hatred. Another cable addressed to Tri-Ocean in Bombay, read: "Have negotiated immediate establishment Pakistan Thompson submachine gun factory."

It was this same Freedman who put Fulton Lewis's legman and Senator McCarthy's investigator in touch with ex-Communist Ralph De Sola, the chief witness against Mrs. Rosenberg. Apparently they posed as representatives of the Senate Armed Services committee. For page 49 of the Senate committee testimony reads:

Senate Agents??

Senator Russell: Who were the members of this committee that you discussed it (Mrs. Rosenberg's confirmation) with?

De Sola: The gentleman was introduced to me as one of the investigators of your committee.

Sen. Russell: Was he a member of the committee or an investigator?

De Sola: He was an investigator.

Sen. Russell: Did he tell you he was an investigator for this committee?

De Sola: Yes, sir, he said he was an investigator for the Armed Services committee of the Senate of the United States.

Sen. Russell: And you don't recall his name?

De Sola: He came with a Mr. Nellor (Fulton Lewis's legman). . . I assumed he was a member of your group.

Sen. Russell: They told you they were investigators for the Senate committee on armed services?

De Sola: Yes, sir.

Gerald L. K. Smith

The two alleged investigators for the Senate committee actually were Ed Nellor, legman for Fulton Lewis, with Don Surine, investigator for Senator McCarthy. Further testimony regarding their trip to New York to collect evidence against Mrs. Rosenberg follows on page 180 of the Senate record:

Sen. Russell (cross-examining Freedman): You did not ask them any questions—people coming to your home at 12 o'clock at night?

Freedman: No, somebody telephoned me from Washington and said: "Two men are coming up to see you about Rosenberg."

Sen. Russell: Who telephoned you from Washington?

Freedman: Mr. Smith.

Sen. Russell: Do you know his business?

Freedman: I think he is in the publishing business—it is this Gerald Smith.

Sen. Russell: Gerald L. K. Smith?

Freedman: Yes.

Sen. Russell: Just what did Mr. Smith tell you?

Freedman: He said, "There are two men on their way to New York to see you."

Sen. Russell: All right, how long did these two men, Nellor and Surine, stay in your home?

Freedman: A few minutes.

Sen. Russell: Did they ask you any questions as to what you knew about Anna Rosenberg?

Freedman: Yes. They may—yes, they did. And I referred them to De Sola, and gave them a card and they went away.

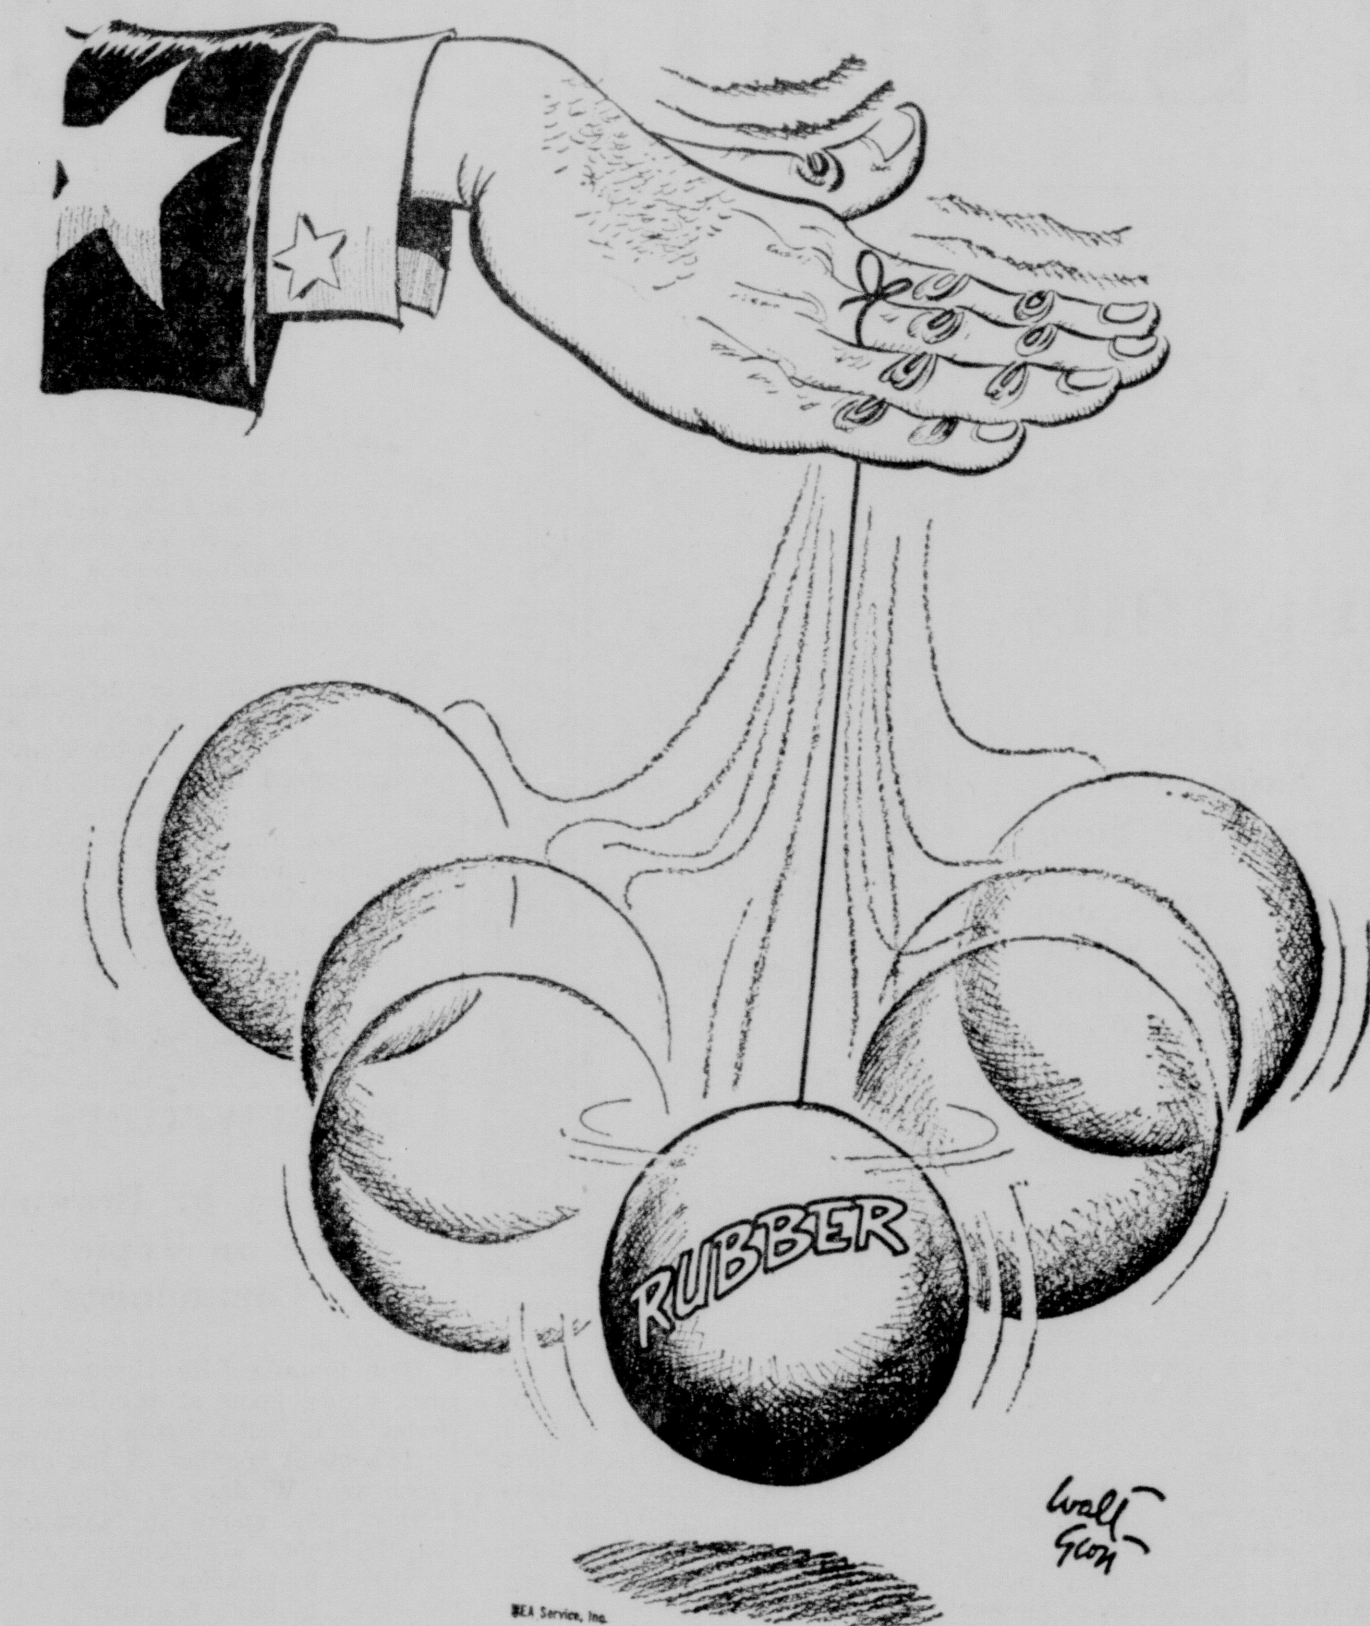

Sen. Russell: What did they say when they came and rang your doorbell? Were you awake?

Freedman: They said they were investigating the Anna Rosenberg matter. And I didn't know whether they were reporters or FBI men, or what they were.

Uncle Sam Takes the Ball

This Last Night

By Ferd Nauheim

Copyright 1951, by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: The entire nation is aroused over the "kidnaping" of Judy Twing by her uncle Paul. The story is one of desertion by the mother, who resisted the father's attempts to obtain the child. The father committed suicide, and Paul tried to get legal custody of Judy, then kidnapped her—a crime punishable by death. But the fact that Judy had been mistreated by her mother had aroused sympathy for Paul. Then Paul, in disguise, visits a tavern in a coal mining town and becomes acquainted with May Jenkins, a waitress. He tells May who he is after May says that with Judy disguised as a boy and with a woman accompanying him, Paul Twing could escape the officers who pursue him. After May learns the identity of the stranger, she knows what he will ask and that Paul would offer her adventure, excitement, and maybe death.

THE swirling panorama of fancy and emotion drained off. May Jenkins focused her eyes on Paul Twing's upturned face. It was a good face.

"You want me to be the woman?" It was a husky declaration.

Paul Twing's face flushed. "It was a crazy idea." His cap lay on the seat next to him. He picked it up. "I've got to get back to the car."

"Wait." The words sprang from her lips. "I'm going with you." Her mind had played no part in her decision, but now, having said it, she became warm, elated, excited.

There was moisture in his eyes. He seized her hand. His was hot. "No, May. God bless you, but no. I'm exhausted. I'm knocked out. I'm not thinking straight. What you said about having a woman along. That started it. Then I got thinking about having someone along I could really talk with and plan with. The way you reacted either one of them (Nellor or Surine) here in Washington? Freedman: Yes.

Sen. Russell: To talk to them?

Freedman: When Mr. De Sola

and I came over here on the train together, we went to Senator McCarthy's office, where he was told to go, I think.

In the end, the great conspiracy fizzled. It was proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that Mrs. Rosenberg had never been a member of the John Reed club, never had any Communist connections. She was unanimously confirmed by the Senate.

NOTE — The Don Surine involved in the Rosenberg case is the same investigator for Senator McCarthy who took William Feder, the Baltimore printer for an all-night ride in an effort to bulldoze him into surrendering a letter from John Butler, who, in defeating Senator Tydings of Maryland, had made Feder a financial pledge which violated the corrupt practices act.

Knowledge of Hygiene Needed To Rid Children of Pinworms

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Tiny white worms in the lower intestines are usually pinworms or seatworms. These are only one kind of animal parasite which can lodge in the bowel, but like the others pinworms often interfere with the general health and are difficult to get rid of.

Pinworms are most common in children, especially among those in large families or in children living in institutions. They are comparatively rare in families in which separate bedrooms are used.

This is because the worms get on the bed linen, pajamas and other clothing and are picked up by others who come in contact with such objects. When children live in an institution or dormitory or when several use the same bedroom the spreading of the worms from one person to another is easy.

The eggs from pinworms are usually laid on the skin and mucous membrane near the outlet of the bowel. This causes severe itching. In fact the itching can be so bad that it produces nervousness, sleeplessness and even convulsions. The exact diagnosis is made by taking swabs from the place where the worms are likely to be and examining the material under the microscope.

Although infection with pinworms is common, it is frequently confused with other parasites and the diagnosis must be clarified by accurate examination. Once this has been done, proper treatment can be started.

Treatment is reasonably satisfactory but should be given to all infected persons in a family or to all children in a dormitory. About nine out of ten are cured by this means although the treatment may have to be repeated several times.

Men Do Not Know How Much Energy Housework Takes

Housework to anyone but a housewife is just another necessary chore that takes just a short time with a minimum of effort. Most menfolk don't realize what a hard job housework really is and what a great amount of energy it takes. Mrs. O. E. Moncus, 66-year-old grandmother, didn't feel up to doing her housework, but now, since she is taking HADACOL, she is able to do her housework without a mite of trouble. Mrs. Moncus found that HADACOL supplied Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron, which her system lacked.

Mrs. Moncus says: "I was weak, run-down, nervous and food didn't agree with me like it should. It gave me indigestion. And I had no appetite. I heard about HADACOL on the radio and how it had helped people who felt like I did. I had aches and pains, too, and these, plus the other things that bothered me, made me feel mighty bad. I just didn't feel up to doing my housework. I started taking HADACOL and after the third bottle I could tell I was a whole lot better. I have taken 18 bottles of HADACOL and I feel so good. I am no longer weak or run-down or nervous. I feel stronger and have pep and energy. My appetite is fine and I no longer have indigestion. And the aches and pains — why, they have been relieved so much. My weight went back to normal and I do my housework without a mite of trouble—mop the floors and clean the blinds and feel fine afterwards. I think HADACOL is wonderful. My husband takes it, too, as does my daughter. We make sure that there is always plenty of HADACOL in the house."

Food Prices Up In December

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 — (P) — Retail food prices nosed upward during the first half of December almost to the all-time peak of July 1948.

This was reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics today as farm belt congressmen protested in advance against an anticipated request from President Truman to let him put his own controls on farm prices.

Democrats and Republicans alike predicted that Congress wouldn't go along with any proposal which might result in lower prices for farmers. They said lower prices would mean smaller production at a time when the nation needs more food.

The BLS reported a rise of 1.2 per cent in retail food prices between Nov. 23 and Dec. 15. The price index was estimated at 216.3 per cent of the 1935-39 average. That was within 0.2 per cent of the all-time record of 216.8.

The new index was 3.2 per cent above the previous month and 5.7 per cent higher than on June 15, before the Korean war started. It was up 9.6 per cent from a year ago.

Good Samaritan Gets Two Chaplains Back to Lines

WONJU, Korea, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The biblical story of the Good Samaritan came true for two American chaplains who strayed 45 miles beyond United Nations lines.

Capt. John E. Gannon, Tacoma, Wash., and Capt. James Carroll (home town unavailable) took a wrong turn through the UN front.

"Our unit was short of maps and someone misdirected us," Gannon said.

The frosty mountainside apparently was thinly held by the Reds at that time.

The chaplains and an enlisted man rode through unchallenged with whom he lived, and a brother, Cornelius Schackelford, of Kansas City.

The body has been taken to the Richards funeral home in Tipton.

Social Responsibility

"The sensibility of man to trifles and his insensibility to great things," Pascal once wrote, "are the marks of a strange inversion." There are many people who are acutely sensitive to anything that affects them personally, but are utterly indifferent to whatever seems to lie beyond the periphery of their own lives.

Such people would resent being accused of extreme self-centeredness. It is nevertheless true that their attitude denotes a complete absence of social responsibility. They are the drones of a world that more than ever demands that each individual do his share in promoting common good.

Today the United States and other free nations are linking forces in a defensive front against the threat of world Communism. In this crisis there is no place for idle bystanders.

In his recent proclamation announcing a state of national emergency, President Truman wrote: I summon every person and every community to make with a spirit of neighborliness, whatever sacrifices are necessary for the welfare of the nation... I summon all citizens to be loyal to the principles upon which our nation is founded, to keep faith with our friends and allies, and to be firm in our devotion to the peaceful purposes for which the United Nations was founded."

The President's proclamation not only called for all-out cooperation in the nation's hour of need, but implicitly underscored the sense of social responsibility which should prompt it.

Acceptance of such responsibility is not merely a matter of civic obligation. It is one enjoined by moral and spiritual laws as well. A man who shirks his patriotic duties is not only a bad citizen, but a moral delinquent in the bargain.

It should be timely to stress that even in normal times men are obligated by religion and good conscience to defend and promote the good of others. Times of emergency always involve a summons for mass cooperation. It should be remembered, however, that there are always needs in social and economic—even political—life that call for joint efforts prompted by good will and unselfishness. There are always calls for charity and generosity so that poverty and misery may be relieved.

The obligation of responding to needs outside one's own small sphere will always be present so long as there are neighbors in need anywhere. Not to rise to this challenge is to betray "an insensibility to great things." It is to lack the charity which is the bond that unites all men to each other.

Sunday School Lesson

Jesus And The Four Gospels
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Four Gospels in the New Testament, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, tell the story of the earthly life, ministry, death, resurrection and redemptive mission of Jesus of Nazareth.

Agreeing and duplicating in many details, each Gospel has its distinctive character and makes its particular contribution to the record of the divine life, and all four are necessary to the full Gospel story.

At that, the full story has never been told. The author of the Gospel of John says (John 20:30) that Jesus did "many other signs in the presence of the disciples, which are not written in this book." He further says that if all the "many other things" should "be written ever one," he supposes that even the world itself could not contain the books that would be written.

There is another sense in which the Gospel story will never be fully told. The story of Jesus is continued in every soul that He blesses and inspires, and in every word and act of grace and goodness of which His spiritual Presence is the source and motive power. So, the greatest of all stories, the story of the Gospel, goes on and on.

If one wishes to realize the distinctive contribution of each of the four Gospels, it is only necessary to consider what would be lacking if any one were left out. How incomplete the Bethlehem story in Matthew's Gospel would be, if we did not have the incidents and backgrounds as they are given in the vivid pages of Luke.

And think of what distinctive things we would lack, if we had no Gospel of John — the vivid story of the calling of the early disciples, the story of the Woman of Samaria, and the words of Jesus concerning true worship, the discourses to the disciples in the last days, and the bold words concerning freedom through the truth.

If we could dispense with one Gospel, it would seem to be the Gospel by Mark, yet that Gospel has a distinction and quality all its own. Its omission of the Christmas story, as in Matthew and Luke, has no particular significance. Papias, one of the earliest of Christian writers, says that Mark had not personally known or heard Jesus; that he was an "interpreter" of Peter.

Mark, through Peter, records such incidents as that of the naming of James and John "Boanerges," by Jesus (Mark 3:17). But what is essential is the simplicity and directness with which Mark makes vivid the Master's ministry from day to day. It is a Gospel of action. Characteristic is its frequent use of the word "straightway."

If Papias is right, we may assume that Peter used the gifted writer, Mark, to make as real for later disciples the reality of the ministry of Jesus as Peter himself had known it. That is what Mark's Gospel may do for us.

I suggest that this Gospel of 16 chapters, the shortest of the four, should be read right through to get its full effect.

We may turn then to the Sermon on the Mount (Matthew 5-7) and to the discourse and philosophy of the Christian religion in John to obtain a vivid consciousness of the Teacher as the One, "Who went about doing good."

Rev. H. A. Wood Of Otterville is Ill
The Rev. Howard A. Wood, pastor of the Methodist church at Otterville, has been seriously ill with pneumonia for over two weeks and the church has granted him the month of January for recovery.

His pulpit is being filled by the Rev. E. W. Bartley, district superintendent, the Rev. Rickets, the Rev. Powell Cain and others. The various departments of the church will continue their work as usual in services.

In over fifty-two years in active service Mr. Wood has never been sick to such an extent he was unable to carry on his pastoral duties.

During his illness hundreds of letters, cards and flowers have been received by him, which gave him much encouragement in his illness.

Evening worship at 7:30. The youth choir leading the song service. Mrs. Berthouex will be at the organ. An "after-Christmas" sermon by the minister, his theme, "They Are Dead, That Sought the Young Child's Life."

Yankees Voted As Team of the Year of 1950

Oklahoma Gridders Close Second to The Baseballers

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The New York Yankees baseball club was voted team of the year for 1950 in the annual year-end poll of sports writers and sportscasters by The Associated Press.

Casey Stengel's Yanks, four straight winners over the Philadelphia Phils in the World Series, had close competition for the honor. Oklahoma's football team, upset in the Sugar bowl after 31 straight victories, was a close second. City College's basketball "Grand Slam" champs were very much in the running.

With 215 voting, 70 picked the Yanks as the standout team in any sport, amateur or professional. Oklahoma drew 56 firsts and City 43 ballots. It was strictly a three-man race, with the Phils a distant fourth. Points figured on a 3-2-1 basis gave the Yanks 361, Oklahoma 319 and City 251.

Then came the Minneapolis Lakers, National Basketball association pro champs, in fifth place. The Cleveland Browns, who followed their all-American conference triumphs with a National Football league title, were sixth.

The Detroit Red Wings, who beat off the New York Rangers in hockey's Stanley Cup finals, were seventh. Princeton's powerful unbeaten football club was next, followed by the Truckee Harlem Globetrotters basketball team.

Tennessee, the Cotton bowl winner over Texas, was tenth on the list of 1950 standouts.

Last year's winner, Notre Dame already has been voted the most disappointing team of 1950. It seems to be a jinx. The 1948 champs, Cleveland Indians, were the 1949 fops.

Despite Stengel's success in 1949 with a crippled club, the Yanks were picked to run behind the favored Boston Red Sox in the '50 American league race.

Although Joe DiMaggio slumped in mid-season and was benched and Tommy Henrich was unable to play regularly, the Yanks came on strong to nip the Detroit Tigers in the stretch. Phil Rizzuto's brilliant shortstop play, plus consistent pitching with the late season addition of Whitey Ford did the job for the Yanks. Their series sweep was almost an anti-climax after the pennant race.

Oklahoma, voted the No. 1 football club in the Associated Press poll, flashed through its regular season unbeaten. It finally met disaster in the Sugar bowl when Kentucky ruined its 31-game record win streak, 13-7. Princeton was the only other college football team mentioned among the first 10 teams.

City College, now suffering the effects of the "season after" reaction, was the late winter sensations of 1950. After upsetting favored Bradley in the National Invitation Tournament, Coach Nat Holman's Beavers repeated the job in the NCAA finals for an unprecedented double.

M. U. Defeats Houston 66-48

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 5.—(AP)—The Missouri Tigers hit 40 per cent of their shots last night in beating Houston University 66 to 48 in a non-conference game.

Bud Heineman, Missouri guard, hit all six of his shots in the first half in leading the Tigers to a 39-19 halftime lead. He topped the game's scoring with 18 points. Houston fumbled and stumbled through the first half, going scoreless from the field for 10 minutes. The visitors outscored the Tigers 29-27 in the last half, but that wasn't enough.

Missouri will open its Big Seven conference race against Kansas State here Saturday night.

Tigers And Hannibal Renew Cage Rivalry Here Tonight

Musial And Saigh Confer

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Stan Musial and his boss talked for three and a half hours yesterday and will get together again soon for further negotiations on a 1951 contract for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cardinal owner Fred Saigh said his conversation with Musial was pleasant and friendly. "I'm very fond of Stan," Saigh said. "He's a fine boy, one of the finest characters in baseball."

Musial said the knee that caused him trouble last season is all right now, that he has been getting a lot of rest and that "this resting has helped me both mentally and physically."

Neither would talk about the main subject at hand: How much Musial will be paid this year.

The two-year contract under which the National league batting champ received a reported $50,000 annually has expired. Musial has said he expects more money this year.

Boxing Shows It Has a Heart

By Arthur L. Edwon
WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Boxing, long known as the swagging tough guy of sports, has proved that it has a heart.

Last night it raised $17,880.45 for the family of Sonny Boy West, the popular little Washington fighter who died two weeks ago after a New York bout.

The boy who knocked West out that night, Percy Bassett of Philadelphia, headed the card. He punched out a workmanlike but unspectacular 10-round victory over Ted (Red Top) Davis of Hartford, Conn. Bassett weighed 130½, Davis 130.

But judging from the applause of the capacity crowd—the paid attendance was 7,501 and many more were turned away—the fans came to see Joe Louis, the former heavyweight king, and Sugar Ray Robinson, welterweight champion.

Both paid their way here and each refereed a preliminary bout. Louis, as usual, was a complete contrast to the bubbling Robinson. He moped around while Lee Savold, one of the best of the heavyweights, went through a three-round exhibition with Charles Patrick Henry of Ireland.

When the bout was finished, Joe held up his own right arm. Force of habit, no doubt. The bouts tested headgear for the first time in a professional ring. These contraptions are supposed to cushion a fall so that a fighter won't be too seriously hurt if he lands on the back of his head, as Sonny Boy West did.

The fighters were almost all against them. Bassett, for example, complained that it kept coming down over his eyes.

"I fought lousy," he said. "I couldn't see."

Shatter Road Blocks After Being Cut off

essential to Communist plans because this is the only important highway center in east central Korea. The roads are icy and bad but they spider web in all directions.

American officers here at the front profess ignorance of the seven Red armies which MacArthur's headquarters report are moving down on them. Only such higher headquarters have the big strategic picture of enemy plans. What Wonju's defenders know is they are faced by "four well equipped, well fed North Korean divisions."

"We have pretty well destroyed their 12th division but the other three still are intact. One of them is an old friend we fought down on the Nakdong last summer—the Tenth," said one senior staff officer.

"Pressure is intensified against us very much," he added. "It's the old story. They have massed their power. However, they are not fighting as well or as tenaciously as they did last year." The scope of today's Red action was typical. The Communists hit one regiment, overran a company then were slammed to a halt. Apparently the Reds are postponing any major local offensive until they are fully positioned.

Fifteen miles below Wonju the roads are jammed with tens of thousands of civilians desperately fleeing the battle zone.

The railroad leading north from Taegu was cut temporarily this week near Wonju about 60 miles north of Taegu. The railway had been an essential link since icy roads slowed highway traffic.

When local conditions dictated, lumbering C-119 Flying Boxcars came to the rescue. Hundreds of tons of fuel, food and supplies were air-dropped. Although the railroad is reopened, drops continued every few minutes today.

Dozens of C-47s got through the raw, wrinkled mountains ringing Wonju to come down on the risky short landing strip bulldozed out of frozen rice paddies.

The spotlight of war focused on Wonju after the Chinese and North Koreans broke through two U. N. divisions east of Seoul early this week. The breakthrough exposed Seoul's flank and resulted in the precipitous order to evacuate South Korea's capital.

Lost Five Days on Northern Range

WILLIAMS LAKE, B. C., Jan. 5.—(AP)—The warmth of his dog and the hoofprints of his missing horse helped cowboy Wesley Swelander stumble back to his bunkhouse Thursday after being lost five days in the northern British Columbian rangelands.

Swelander, 32, said he owed his life to his dog Duke. Swelander set off in zero weather on horseback to check on some range cattle. He got lost. He had only one match to start a fire the first night.

On the third day his range horse disappeared. He and the dog huddled together for warmth. Next day he and the dog started following the horse's track thru

Your Income Tax Primer

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of 15 authoritative, easy-to-follow articles in NEA's 10th annual Income Tax Primer that gives the average taxpayer expert advice on handling every item of his return with the least effort, greatest accuracy—and minimum payment. It's written by Richard A. Mullens, ranking Washington tax authority who's a graduate of the same training course given Federal agents who scan your own return. As in all other years, it has been prepared in consultation with Bureau of Internal Revenue experts.

By Richard A. Mullens
NEA Special Correspondent

Substantial tax savings can be made by the smart taxpayer who really knows his deductions. For example, the law permits those employees who travel or who are on expense accounts to deduct certain expenses from their income shown in Item 2, page 1, of Form 1040.

This article will show those employed how to figure and to deduct their travel and reimbursed expenses.

The law also permits the deduction of certain expenses connected with traveling or earning a living as miscellaneous deductions on page 3 of Form 1040, provided the tax table or the standard deduction is not used to compute the tax. Article 13 will explain in detail what expenses can be deducted on page 3 of Form 1040. These include union dues, special work clothes, and local travel expenses.

Those of you who travel on business should read this carefully.

When you go away from the city where you usually work, and remain away at least overnight on your employer's business, the cost of your transportation, meals, lodging, tips, business phone calls and similar expenses necessary to your travel and business can be deducted. You cannot deduct laundry and other personal expenses. Nor can a taxpayer who lives in one town and works in another deduct the expenses of traveling back and forth.

For those of you on an expense account, this is the rule: You are entitled to deduct your actual expenses provided your employer reimburses you for the money spent for him and provided you add these payments to the income and report from that job. If such expenses exceed what your employer reimburses you for, the excess can only be deducted on page 3 as described in detail in Article 13.

You are required to attach a detailed statement of any travel or reimbursed expenses deducted under the above rules. The two blanks printed here will help you list what travel items can be deducted. If you used your car for business purposes, fill in the top blank. Then estimate what per cent of the mileage during 1950 was driven on:

1. Out-of-town business trips where you stayed away at least overnight.

2. Business trips which did not take you away from home overnight.

3. Personal or pleasure driving.

Jane Public, our imaginary taxpayer, and her husband drove the family car 6,000 miles in 1950. Jane worked as a saleslady for a cosmetic firm, during which time she drove 500 miles to attend a two-day business meeting and also drove 500 miles on local business trips. John Public did not use the family car for business. They figure the per cent of Jane's use as follows:

1. Overnight trip—8%.

2. Local business trips—8%.

3. Personal use—84%.

Now multiply your total out-of-pocket costs on the top chart by your percentage for overnight trips. This gives the deduction for the bottom chart. The deduction for business trips which did not take you away from home overnight is figured in the same way. This amount is NOT deductible in Item 2, page 1, of Form 1040 so it should NOT be shown on the bottom chart. You can deduct this as a miscellaneous deduction on page 3 of Form 1040 unless you use the tax table or the standard deduction. This will be explained more fully in Article 13.

Notice how Jane Public deducted her expenses in Item 2 of Form 1040 as reproduced yesterday. The separate schedule, copied on plain paper and filed with the return, will be shown in the 10th article, where all of Mr. and Mrs. Public's income items and schedules are reproduced together to show how they are filed.

Tax Primer Q. & A.

Q. On a recent business trip I received a per diem allowance of $7 per day from my employer, but my business expenses as defined above were $8 a day. How should I deduct the $8?

A. You must include the $7 per day as income in Item 2, page 1, of Form 1040, but you can also show in the same place a deduction of $7 per day for reimbursed expenses. The remaining expense of $1 can only be deducted on page 3 of Form 1040 under conditions described in Article 13.

Q. I live in Baltimore but have a job in Washington. I commute each day. Can I deduct my travel expenses?

A. No. Travel from home to work is not deductible, even if you live in another city.

Attlee Sounds Warning

LONDON, Jan. 5.—(P)—Prime Minister Attlee told a closed meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers Thursday "war certainly is not inevitable."

A pledge to work for peace came from the eight conferees, whose territories cover a quarter of the land of the earth.

A British spokesman who attended this opening session of a 10-day conference said the group also laid down three broad policy objectives:

1—Maintenance of United Nations authority in world danger spots such as Korea.

2—Unity of the free world.

3—A constructive approach to world crises, following certain courses of action and avoiding others.

Besides Attlee, those attending are Prime Ministers Louis St. Laurent of Canada, D. S. Senanayake of Ceylon, Robert G. Menzies of Australia, Sidney G. Holland of New Zealand, Sir Godfrey Huggins of Southern Rhodesia and Jawaharlal Nehru of India. Interior Minister T. E. Donaghy of South Africa is representing the ailing Prime Minister Daniel Malan.

Pakistan Minister Absent

Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan, angered by a refusal of his colleagues to discuss formally Pakistan's quarrel with India over the future of mountainous Kashmir, was absent. A dispatch from Karachi tonight reported plane seats booked provisionally for him and his party Monday have been cancelled. A message from Attlee failed to induce the Pakistan leader to change his mind.

Effects of this commonwealth split have still to be determined. However, speculation that Pakistan now might leave the commonwealth seems premature.

The United States as well as Britain wants to see Indian and Pakistan come to terms over Kashmir. They recognize that the big Moslem Pakistan and Hindu Indian armies which face each other there are draining the military strength of both nations at a time when all their resources are wanted to assume special responsibilities in defense of the free world.

Eisenhower Calls To Western Europe For Sacrifices Equal US

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—(P)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today called on western Europe to make "equal sacrifices" with the United States in order to attain world peace.

The newly appointed supreme commander of the western allies coupled this call with a declaration that the sole purpose of the North Atlantic treaty movement is to secure tranquility for "all the world, not just for the western democracies."

General Eisenhower will leave for Europe on Saturday for what he said will be "an exploratory" trip to "reassure myself that we are not working at cross purposes with anybody."

He told a news conference, which included representatives from most nations of the world including Russia, that the American people would have to make greater sacrifices.

"If every American sacrifice is not matched by equal sacrifices by the peoples and governments of the European democracies," Eisenhower stated, "we are not going to win this security."

As examples of sacrifice he mentioned higher taxes and willingness to serve the state in any capacity, military or civilian.

Eisenhower made his statement in uniform. He will tour all of the twelve North Atlantic treaty countries in uniform. But he stressed his belief that his new mission held no "spirit or intent of belligerence."

Sacrifice in Urgency
He said the sacrifices he called for at home and abroad might be achieved "in an orderly fashion, but in a sense of urgency."

Eisenhower also emphasized his conviction that the western nations must "count the cost" of their sacrifices so that no plans or methods employed will "sterilize" their economies. In the long run, he said, "there can be no security without solvency."

His aim, he said, will be to gain the "confidence and willing cooperation" of the allied leaders and people. He said a "growing spirit and willingness to sacrifice and to work with us."

Eisenhower also appeared at a luncheon of senators and government officials. Those who attended quoted him as saying he does not believe it is possible for "190,000,000 backward people"—obviously a reference to Russia—to conquer western civilization.

At his news conference, Eisenhower left no doubt there was much for him and the western nations to do before they can achieve any feeling of security through the organization of their collective strength. He said that as far as he knew the conferences and discussions by the treaty powers to date had produced only "a rough program of intentions."

The general added that he did not see how the western allies could reach any decisions about the specific ratio of forces each would contribute to the common cause until "someone in a position of relative authority can see how the proportions can be fixed and fitted into one planning pattern."

He also said that there could be no talk about the makeup of the western allied staff "even in an embryo stage" at this time. He added that his staff would undoubtedly include officers from all of the 12 treaty nations.

For Three Billion Housing Program

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 —(P)—A new $3,000,000,000 federal housing program aimed primarily at meeting defense needs was announced on Capitol Hill Thursday.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate Banking committee and Chairman Spence (D-KY) of the House banking committee said twin bills for the administration-sponsored program will be introduced in both houses of Congress next week.

Maybank said Senate hearings on the legislation will begin Jan. 15. He said he hoped to get the bill before the Senate by Feb. 5 or 6.

The four-point program provides for construction of community facilities in defense areas, government purchases of land and construction of houses where required to do the job, and new aid for the pre-fabricated housing industry.

It also includes government insurance for virtually all types of housing, but with emphasis on housing needed in defense areas.

Maybank emphasized that it is the intent of the bill to leave the actual construction and operations of the program to states, cities, local communities and private enterprises wherever possible.

But he made it clear that the federal government will step in and acquire land, build houses for later resale, and take whatever other steps are necessary to insure housing in critical defense areas.

The final draft of the bill has not been completed.

Bill Threatens GI Insurance Rights Of 10 Million World War II Veterans

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 — An estimated 10,000,000 World War II veterans are in danger of losing their GI insurance rights.

This threat is contained in a bill which was passed by the House during the final special session of the 81st Congress. Although it didn't pass the Senate, it is all set for reintroduction and quick passage by the new 82nd Congress.

The bill also marks a sharp cut-back from the World War II standard in the amount of benefits to be given many Korean and all future veterans.

It would give a free $10,000 policy to every man in service. And it would permit every veteran who had been made uninsurable by his service to buy a non-participating GI policy for the future.

But it would not permit the vast majority of veterans to hang onto their government insurance after they get out of service. Veterans organizations consider GI insurance, after service, to be one of the most valuable benefits which Uncle Sam has provided. This benefit has also been used as a prime recruiting argument by the services.

The most serious impact of the bill, however, would be on the estimated 10,000,000 World War II veterans whose GI policies have expired, but who have the right under present law to get new GI policies in the future. The bill which passed the House before Christmas eliminates that right by prohibiting the issuance of any more National Service Life Insurance policies.

It is the opinion of most insurance experts of the veterans organizations that the great majority of GIs who dropped their policies when they got out of service did so with the express plan of getting new GI policies some time in the future when they might get married or could better afford it.

Also in doubt in the House-passed bill is the future of the policies which have been kept in force but which haven't been converted to a permanent plan. There is some opinion that the bill would also eliminate that choice by GI policy holders.

Main supporters of the bill are the Bureau of the Budget and groups of private insurance company executives. It is the theory of Budget officials that giving the men policies without charging premiums, would eliminate much of the costly administrative problems which were involved in NSLI. And it would help take the government out of the insurance business inasmuch as the men would lose their policies as soon as they were discharged.

In answer to this, an American Legion spokesman points out that a record would have to be kept of the date every man left service. There would be costly litigation for the men who claimed that they were rendered uninsurable by service. There would have to be machinery to pay beneficiaries the $10,000 which would be spread over 10 years.

And further, opponents of the new bill point out, the so-called free insurance isn't insurance at all. It's simply a death gratuity and does not provide the same protection and benefits of true life insurance.

It has always been the opinion of many private insurance executives that GI insurance has been an unwise thing. They think Uncle Sam should not be in the insurance business at all.

Under the new bill, these executives would win an important point. While the men are in service they would have free protection. But as soon as they got out they would have to buy insurance from a private company if they wanted it.

The insurance experts of the veterans organizations hope some compromise will be worked out.

They are for the free insurance while the men are in service, which would also be given the survivors of the Korean dead. And they might go along with having insurance end with a man's discharge. But they hope that the 10,000,000 veterans who have been thinking they could by Doc Bob, Your Dry Cleaner!

- Glue and Cement...Examine carefully pleated or fluted pockets. Many of the fancy designs are glued to a piece of fabric to hold the pleats or flutings in place. Many of these glues are soluble in dry cleaning solvent, with the results that the pleats will fall out of place.

Solvent-soluble glue or cement is used in many imitation furs. If the cleaner does not detect the imitation, the result after dry cleaning will be an unsightly mess. Several types of prints are produced by the use of adhesives. In one type, the adhesive is first applied in the desired design, then finely pulverized fibers are blown onto the fabric so that they adhere to the design.

"SERVICE IS OUR MOTTO"

Far More Beautiful...Gorgeous New Interiors...and an Even Finer High-Compression Engine!

TODAY, we are privileged to present the new Cadillac for 1951—finer and more wonderful from every conceivable standpoint. . . . Numerous refinements in exterior design have made it more lovely to behold—while wholly new interiors, so rich in fabric and tailoring that they defy description, impart a sense of luxury that is simply beyond compare. . . . And, oh, the things that have been done to make it more gentle to handle—and more comfortable to ride in! The changes in this regard are manifold—and the results are a revelation. The car's quietness is now akin to silence; driving is all but a response to your wish; comfort leaves literally nothing to be desired. To ride or drive is to relax—and to rest. . . . The great master engine has also been refined—down to the smallest details. Its voice is closer to a whisper; its power application is faster; and it's even smoother in operation. . . . And there is an even finer Hydra-Matic Drive—with a new reverse for easier shifting, and for "rocking" the car in sand or snow. . . . There is new steadiness on the road—better balance on turns and curves—easier and softer braking. And throughout the chassis are vital improvements which add to endurance and dependability. . . . All in all, here is new lustre for the Cadillac name—and a far higher standard for the automotive world. . . . There are ten distinctive body types and four individual series—the "Sixty-One," the "Sixty-Two," the "Sixty Special," and the incomparable "Seventy-Five". . . . Why not come in and see them today? We'd be most happy to see you—and we are certain you'd find it an interesting and enlightening experience.
